Hillary Clinton's failure to be nominated as the Democrat presidential candidate is a blessing in disguise. For it has let her, as well as her powerful husband-the former president Bill Clinton, free from the limitation of the American politics. The American presidency, no matter how enormously powerful it may appear, is very much constrained by the American psyche, politics, ways of life and economic system. Compared to the magnitude of the world crisis, the American highest office has very limited power to handle. Neither can any government in the world. The world problems have grown out of its coping capacity in an old isolated manner. It needs new transcending force. This force must transcend all boundaries, national, cultural, ethnical, religious, ideological or economic systems. All humanity must be one in struggling for survival and well being of lives on this planet.

Albert Einstein once said " We shall need a radically new manner of thinking, if mankind is to survive". A radically new manner of thinking is not possible without New Consciousness. Inequality or lack of justices lead to poverty , tragedies, conflicts and violence around the world. The present economic development model does not help narrowing gaps between the rich and the poor, nationally or internationally, but the opposite. Short of a consciousness revolution, it is not possible to reverse the disastrous direction. Nor it can be resolved by wars or any forms of violent means. Only if humanity is conscious of its wholeness and the same oneness. Living together with Justice and Peace should be the common purpose of all mankind, not economic competition.

Bill and Hillary Clinton are intelligent, compassionate toward the poor and the underprivileged and well known all over the world. Its time for them to transcend the narrow boundary of the American politics. With new consciousness they can work with fellow human beings around the world for Justice and Peace. Differing from most other people, the Clintons, if not bound by American politics, will be in a unique position to talk with world leaders around the globe. The couple are not without flaws. But the transcending Clintons will be enormous energy for world Justice and Peace. Only New Consciousness, Justice and Peace throughout the world can save humanity and the planet. Bill and Hillary Clinton can be a transcending force for this crucial destiny. Thus Hillary's failure may be a blessing in disguise.
